Five Incumbents and Three Challengers Compete for Five City Council Seats

by Elaine Skolnik

The September 30, 1985 city council election appears to be devoid of major issues to divide the candidates. Voters in next Monday's election may have to look to other factors as they make their selection - things like the individual candidates' degree and length of involvement, leadership and experience in public affairs in the city, their performance at candidates' forums, in particular at those that were cablecast, the views contained in their literature, and their personalities.

Dominating the political scene are issues of development and zoning, parkland, traffic and road improvements, transportation, crime prevention and control, and priorities in spending money authorized by this year's capital improvements bond referendum.

Over 50% of Greenbelt's 3,222 eligible voters are expected to cast their ballots on Monday, September 30 to elect the five city council members who will head the municipal government for the next two years. Incumbents Gil Weidenfeld, Richard R. Pilski, Edward V.J. Putens, Antoinette M. "Toni" Bram and Thomas X. White are seeking return to council. Also out on the hustings are challengers Joseph C. Isaacs, Valerie Siegel and Steven A. Curtis.

The current campaign is in some respects a mirror image of 1981 and 1983. There are no referenda, no slates and eight candidates are in the race. Incumbents are touting their records and challengers are saying it's time for a change.

The Greenbelt Connection will be transporting voters to and from the polls next Monday from 9 to 5 p.m. at no charge. For a ride call 474-4100.

Election results will be cablecast on Channel A-10 on Monday night as soon as they become available.

Since the last election the city has grown by 273 acres through annexation of land in the Greenbelt East area. The city limits now extend to Good Luck Road. Voting for the first time in a city election will be residents of Hunting Ridge condominium apartments annexed in November 1984. Eligible voters now living in the townhouse developments

Greenbriar Candidates' Night Elicits Views of City Council Candidates

by Mavis Fletcher

At a Candidates' Forum sponsored by the Greenbriar Community Association on Monday, moderator Robert Zugby, Community Liaison for the Association, asked each candidate to address two general questions in a three-minute opening statement: 1) growth and development in the city, particularly in Greenbelt East; and 2) adequacy of city services, especially with regard to the size of the police force.

Siegel

Challenger Valerie Siegel, who introduced herself as a practicing attorney living and working in Greenbelt, said that there had been "too much" growth and development "too soon" throughout the city and especially in Greenbelt East. She characterized an immediate and accurate assessment of the city's bargaining strength and open communications with county officials as "crucial" and emphasized adherence to covenants already in place with developers working within the city. For the future, she said incoming developers should make contributions in money or greenspace which offset the losses which development brings. If elected, she said, her first priority would be to examine every deed to every vacant property in the city to determine what restrictions exist. "When the backhoes roll in on the so-called dedicated property, it's a bit late," she said.

Citing the FBI's Uniform Crime Report, which recommends 2.3 sworn police officers for every 1000 residents, she pointed out that Greenbelt now has only 1.3 officers per thousand. By next July, the city expects to have 36 officers on the streets, still only about two per thousand residents.

Putens

Incumbent Edward Putens, the only East Greenbelt resident presently serving on the city council, emphasized that he has taken strong positions in opposition to development which does not conform to the needs and concerns of the citizens. He said that the city should "insist that future developers use the lowest possible density (which would be) in accordance with approved master plans." He also pointed to the need for single-family homes in Greenbelt and said he hoped any future application to build in the city would include single-family homes. Putens hit most strongly at the traffic situation. He said, "Those of us who reside on this side, know what it means to get on that road. . . . Greenbelt roads are becoming the Shirley Highway of Maryland—a parking lot." He promised to continue efforts to see that streets and roads are improved.

Putens affirmed his past and future support for additional police. He pointed to the increased crime rate and particularly to the different types of crime which development brings, warning that the city must act before it is too late.

Bram

Incumbent Antoinette Bram cited her work on the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board, the Advisory Planning Board and two years on the city council. She said that in the past 12 years she had been working on one level or another in urban studies. She pointed out that this is the second wave of development in Greenbelt and that it is affecting all of the city but particularly East Greenbelt. Dealing with it requires knowledge and expertise, she said, in dealing with zoning, design plans and traffic studies. Bram acknowledged that commercial development is a difficult issue. She said that she is "committed to working long and hard on this complex problem to help produce the best situation for Greenbelt's future."

On the subject of using the $6 million of bond money authorized by Greenbelt voters in May, Bram said her long-range priorities are

by Elaine Skolnik

Voting on election day, Monday, September 30, will be held from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at four polling places — the Greenbelt Municipal Building (Precinct 3-Center), North End School (Precinct 6-North End), Springhill Lake Community House (Precinct 8-Springhill Lake), and Greenbriar Community Center (Precinct 13-Greenbelt East).

Greenbelters will elect five council members, all at large, for a two year term. In order to be elected, a candidate must receive 40% of the votes cast. If fewer than five candidates receive such a vote, a run-off election will be held one week later on Monday, October 7.

In a run-off election the ballot will consist of those unsuccessful candidates receiving the highest number of votes, up to twice as many names as there are positions to be filled. Candidates polling the greatest number of votes are declared winners in the run-off election regardless of the percentage of votes received.

The 40% requirement for election was introduced in 1967. Earlier a majority vote was required, frequently resulting in run-off elections. Since 1967 no run-offs have taken place. The last run-off election in 1965 pitted Richard Pilski against Clifford Simonson. Pilski won by one vote.

If all five council members are elected on September 30, there will be an organizational meeting of the new council on Monday, October 7. (This meeting is set by charter.) If there is a run-off election, the organizational meeting will be held on Monday, October 14.

Upon being sworn in, the newly elected council will choose the mayor.

Voters will also be asked to complete a city-prepared information card. See 1985, page 17, col. 1

ANGRY SAVERS MEET TO EXPLORE WAYS TO RETRIEVE S&L FUNDS

by Alexander Barnes

A standing-room-only crowd of over 150 frustrated Community Savings & Loan depositors met Tuesday, September 17 in the Greenbelt library. This overflow crowd appeared in response to a three-sentence letter published in the News Review the week before announcing the meeting. The letter was initiated by Dr. Lekh Batra and was also signed by David Lange and Caitlin Owens. Lange served as moderator, providing background, and then turned to the audience for what turned out to be an active forum for individuals concerns.

The klieg light of a WDVM-TV camera occasionally focused on the speakers. Additional coverage was provided by the Washington Post. When Lange interrupted the proceedings to develop a more formal organization, Lekh Batra nominated Lange for president and Alexander E. Barnes for treasurer. They were overwhelmingly approved.

Batra had opened the meeting and introduced Lange. The purpose was stated as a gathering of Greenbelters to see what could be done as a community to resolve the problems caused by the shutting down of Community S&L. Lange traced the history of how Community S&L in Greenbelt had begun as Twin Pines S&L, a cooperative formed for the purpose of providing loans to GHI homeowners. Many had kept their money there out of loyalty.

In the session which followed, a suggestion was made to put mortgage payments into an escrow account rather than paying them either to Community or to EPIC, the real estate corporation which is Community's subsidiary. "We need to consult a lawyer," somebody responded. Another suggested a class action

Top State S&L Official To Speak to Depositors

A public meeting of concerned depositors of Community Savings & Loan will be held on Tuesday, October 1, at Eleanor Roosevelt High School, at 7:30 p.m. Melville S. Brown, recently appointed as Director of the Maryland Deposit Insurance Fund (MDIF) will represent Governor Hughes and address the meeting. Brown also is responsible for overseeing Community S & L as well as other troubled Maryland S & L's.

The event is an outcome of recent activity initiated by three Greenbelt residents, Lekh Batra, David Lange, and Caitlin Owens. A public meeting on September 17 (see separate story) resulted in the formation of ATOM ("Access to Our Money") and an invitation to the governor, who designated Brown as his representative.

Brown was requested by ATOM to present the State's plans for resolving the S & L crisis, to describe improvements in providing useful information to the public, and to answer questions from individuals. Because the 900-seat auditorium is expected to be full, time will limit the questions to those of the most general interest.

Depositors from other communities are expected to attend, including many from Bowie, Bethesda, Rockville, Gaithersburg, and Columbia. A newly-formed group in Columbia, Maryland S & L Depositors' Committee, is helping to publicize the meeting.

Brown, 41, is a banking executive who has held senior posts at several banks in Florida, and served as a Peace Corps management consultant in Costa Rica. He will be replying to many prickly questions already raised in the September 17 meeting, as well as new issues likely to be raised by the much larger audience expected at the meeting at Roosevelt.

Massaro-Cain

In a double-ring ceremony performed by a rabbi and a Unitarian minister, Michael E. Cain, of Lastner Lane, and Susan B. Massaro, of Bellmore, Long Island, N.Y., were married on Aug. 24.

Mike, son of Jarvis and Patricia Cain, is a 1980 graduate of Eleanor Roosevelt High School and a 1984 graduate of Hofstra University. Susan, daughter of Anthony and Harriet Massaro, also graduated from Hofstra in 1984.

Maid of honor was Laura Campanelli, and Mike's sister Mee Jung served as a bridesmaid with Susan's friends Janna Silverstein and Melissa Andolf. Rob Lieb served as best man, and the three ushers were Mike's brothers Joe and Fred and Susan's brother Michael.

After a honeymoon in Williamsburg, the couple have moved to 233 Lastner Lane. Mike is in his second year of law school at American University, and Susan is attending University College, University of Maryland in order to obtain her teaching certificate.

Christmas Concert Rehearsals Begin

The Greenbelt Combined Choir will begin rehearsals for its annual Christmas Concert on Thursday, October 3 at 7:30. Rehearsals will be held in the Greenbelt Community Church, located at Hillside and Crescent roads.

The Choir will include in its concert this year parts of Handel's Messiah, "I Saw Three Ships," and "Fanfare for Christmas Day." Experienced and inexperienced singers are welcome to join the group which performs as part of Greenbelt's Festival of Lights and at Green Ridge House. No auditions are necessary. For further information, call Jean Cook, 345-2597.

29th Infantry Div. to Be Reactivated in Ceremony

The Maryland National Guard announces the reactivation of the 29th Infantry Division, famous for its D-Day invasion of Omaha Beach more than 41 years ago, in a ceremony at Ft. Belvoir, Va. Saturday, October 5 at 10:30 a.m. Maryland Gov. Harry Hughes and Virginia Gov. Charles S. Robb will be on hand.

Comprising troops from the Maryland and Virginia National Guard, including Greenbelt's Company C, 1st Battalion, 115th Infantry, the division is one of five light infantry divisions being created by the U.S. Army to meet the need for quick, lightning-like responses to global combat missions.

A public reception will be held following the ceremony and light refreshments will be served.

History Course Offered

Holy Cross Lutheran Church is offering an 8-week free course in the history of World Wars I and II, 1914-1945, Fridays from 10:30 to noon, beginning October 4. The class is sponsored and conducted by Prince Georges Community College and geared to be particularly interesting to persons 60 and over. Everyone is welcome. For information call Scott Wycherley, 345-5111.

Correction

City council candidate Valerie Siegel's response to the question "What would you do to insure that development does not further reduce the quality of life in this community" was incorrectly reported in the News Review issue of September 19. Her response appears in the full text of her statement printed as an ad on page 15 of this issue.

Donald McCaughey

Donald McCaughey died September 23 after a heart attack. In real estate for over 20 years, he was associated with Long & Foster for six years.

A resident of Greenbelt for 35 years, he had been a member of the Lion's Club, American Legion and Disabled American Veterans.

He is survived by his wife, Linda; daughters Katherine Crawford and Susan Paulson, and a granddaughter Katie Crawford.

The funeral will take place on Friday, September 27 at Hines Rinaldi Funeral Home, 11800 New Hampshire Ave., Silver Spring at 11 a.m. Burial will be at George Washington Cemetery.

FIRST PLAY AT UTOPIA

The lights go up at the Utopia Theater stage on Friday evening, Sept. 27, as the Greenbelt Players begin a three-week run of the Neil Simon comedy "I Ought to Be in Pictures."

The unusual alternation of cast each weekend is a special feature of the comedy which opens tomorrow night, followed by a buffet of light refreshments and beverages with the cast.

Directed by Susan Hedges and H. G. Cote, the play has been described as "appealing . . . witty" and "sensitive and bittersweet."

This is the first of five plays to be presented this season by the Greenbelt Players and their sixth season at the Greenbelt Arts Center. The production continues Saturday night and the next two weekends, with curtain time set at 8:15 p.m. Group rates are still available for organizations with more than 10 members, if reservations are made in advance. Information can be obtained by leaving a phone number at 441-8770.

Lakewood Civic Assoc. To Hold Picnic on Sept. 28

The Lakewood Civic Association will hold its annual picnic on Saturday, Sept. 28, from 1 p.m. till dark at Fayette Place cul de sac.

Hamburgers, hot dogs, drinks, and beer will be supplied. Please bring a covered dish. There is a nominal fee.

The Association extends an invitation to all City Council Candidates to join the picnic.

For more information call 474-4032.

OPEN LETTER

This is about your responses on the Sept. 10 Candidates' Night to my proposed regulation of sales of tobacco products to children in Greenbelt . . .

Some of your arguments:

1) Questionable constitutionality. Ans: This sort of regulation is already in effect in Friendship Heights, Md. They went through a rigorous legal process in producing something usable. As required, this regulation did pass the Montgomery County Council . . .

2) We would have to have a public hearing. Ans.: I agree — that's the way it's done typically.

3) It would be unenforceable. Ans: I am not talking about forcible prevention of sales to children. I am talking about removing open temptations to children to buy or to steal cigarettes. Just as with other products the sales and use will increase with easy access. It is very clear whether a merchant has posted a sign required by law, it's clear whether his cigarettes are displayed in an open rack easily accessible to children, it's clear whether a cigarette machine has been placed where it can be supervised. Therefore, violations in these areas would be easy to discern and would thus be easier to deal with. Granted, setting up a regulation and enforcing it would be some trouble, but protection of our children is never free. . . .

4) This regulation would discriminate against smokers. Ans.: I haven't met a smoker yet who wants his/her children to smoke.

5) This type of action is more appropriate at the county or state level. Ans.: It will probably take regulations in a few signi-

THANKS

Thanks to everyone who participated in the cleanup of Greenbelt Lake this past Saturday. Even though there was short notice of the lake being lowered, a good turnout of volunteers was present.

Undeterred by the muddy conditions, the volunteers contributed their Saturday morning to cleaning up the lake bed and keeping the lake an enjoyable place for everyone.

Collected on Saturday morning were 50 bags of bottles and cans, two bicycle frames, a street sign, and numerous tires.

Again, thanks to everyone who participated in the clean up

City of Greenbelt

ficant cities like Greenbelt to get the county government to listen.

6) Kids can easily go to neighboring towns and get cigarettes. Ans.: That's right. Not only that, they can probably go right next door and get marijuana, alcohol, pornography and stolen bike parts. I've taken a clear stand in my home about questionable and proven-dangerous products and I would like to see my community do the same . . .

Notably the National Automatic Merchandising Association testified in favor of the Friendship Heights regulation . . . Notably, also, The Tobacco Institute testified in favor of the Md. Senate Bill 84 (to raise the tobacco-buying age) early this year.

Paving the Way

Since my wife and I both retired we observed with great interest the excellent work done by the repaving men. They did their work accurately and in spite of the very hot weather they worked without rest during the repaving work until it was finished and they accurately painted the white dividing line. We also noted with interest the untiring work of the men operating the grass cutting machines, again in the very hot weather. In view of their hard work and industry without rest I felt that public acknowledgement in the Greenbelt News Review would do them justice.

Sweep the Lots

Warning—to those who park in the Labor Day Festival parking lots, you may find yourself in the position that you have to repair or replace your tires.

The nails, tacks and other sharp materials are never removed after the festival has been closed. The lots are covered with countless numbers of such materials. The Mobil station has been plugging tires for several weeks . . . This problem has persisted for many years. Even now, if you check in the parking areas you will see many nails, etc.

These lots should be swept out at the conclusion of every festival.

There Were Other Contest Winners . . .

Elaine Robbins was chosen first runner-up in the 1985 Labor Day Festival's Miss Greenbelt contest. Second runner-up was Deanna Baumgardner and third runner-up, Cheryl Miller.

The Miss Congeniality award was given to Paula Clinedinst, who is also the new Miss Greenbelt. Elaine Robbins won the Pageant award which was given to the girl who contributed the most in terms of personal effort, time, and enthusiasm. The talent award went to Faith Palmerton and Kristy Byrd won the Glo-girl award, a new award presented by Mary Kay Cosmetics.

Thomas X. White resides at 8 Woodland Way with his wife, Helen, and five of their seven children. The Whites have lived in Greenbelt for the past 26 years.

White, a native Washingtonian, was educated in the parochial school system, graduating from Gonzaga College High School in 1953. After attending Georgetown University for one year, he enlisted in the U.S. Navy and served for five years as a Medical Corpsman.

Leaving active service in 1959, he enrolled at the University of Maryland, moving with his family to Greenbelt at that time. In 1962, he earned a B.S. Degree in Microbiology and has worked for the past 23 years in the field of medical products. For the past nine years he has worked for the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, where he is Director of Production and Quality Programs.

White has continued his affiliation with the U.S. Navy as an active Naval Reservist. Completing his 31st year of Naval Reserve service, he is assigned to a Navy Reserve Medical Unit at Adelphi, Md.

He began his active community service in 1962 when he served with the Greenbelt Jaycees, Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt, and various committees and elective offices in the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) cooperative. He served on the GHI Audit Committee for three years, the GHI Board of Directors for four years, and served as the Treasurer of GHI during 1973-74. He was one of the founders of the Greenbelt Save Our Community Committee (SOCC). SOCC was instrumental in preventing the location of a planned three school complex on Parcels 1 and 2 between GHI Homes and Baltimore-Washington Parkway, and led the opposition to the use of a package temporary sewage treatment plant to serve new residential properties in Greenbelt.

Tom was first elected to the Greenbelt City Council in 1973 and has served six terms. While on the council he has been active in county, regional, state, and national organizations dealing with municipal affairs. These include:

Prince Georges Democratic Central Committee; Member, Water Resources Planning Board; Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (MWCOC); Alternate Member, Metropolitan Interstate Air Quality Planning Committee, MWCOC;

Member, Governor's Commission on Condominiums, Cooperatives, and Homeowners' Associations; Member, State of Maryland Air Quality Control Advisory Council; Member, Maryland Municipal League Board of Directors and Executive Committee; Chairman, MML Planning and Intergovernmental Affairs Committee; Member, National League of Cities Board of Directors; Member, National League of Cities Budget and Audit Committee; and Board Liaison to the Energy, Environment and Natural Resources Policy Steering Committee of the National League of Cities.

White is a member of Greenbelt American Legion Post No. 136, Citizens for Greenbelt, and the Greenbelt Cultural Arts Center. He is a charter member and former president of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club. During the past year he served on the Steering Committee of the group that organized the new Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative which has taken over operation of the local supermarket and service station. He also remains active in Greenbelt Homes, Inc., serving on the cooperative's Finance Committee. White is a volunteer crime watch member for Woodland Hills and a volunteer worker for St. Hugh's Bingo.

Gil Weidenfeld

110 Ridge Road

A graduate engineer and attorney, Weidenfeld is serving his fourth term as mayor and completing his seventh term on the city council.

Weidenfeld, who has served as vice-president of the Maryland Municipal League (MML) for three years, was on the MML's Board of Directors for five years. He is a past president of the Prince Georges County Municipal Association (PGCMA) and served five years on the PGCMA Executive Board. Weidenfeld was selected by the PGCMA as the "Outstanding Municipal Official of Prince Georges County" for 1976-1977.

Mayor Weidenfeld is also vice-chairman of the Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (COG) and is completing his seventh year on the COG Board.

Weidenfeld, who holds a management position with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, has earned numerous governmental awards for outstanding performance, special achievement and for work of outstanding quality.

In 1969, Weidenfeld earned a law degree, Doctor of Jurisprudence, from Catholic University in Washington, D.C. In 1960, he received a Bachelor of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering from Rutgers University in New Jersey. He is a member of the Maryland Bar, the District of Columbia Bar and the United States Supreme Court Bar.

The Weidenfeld family, Gil, Muriel, and daughters Sharon and Ellen are twenty-year Greenbelt residents. They formerly lived in Springhill Lake and Boxwood Village. The family presently resides on Ridge Road.

Edward Putens

8225 Canning Terrace

Edward Putens has lived in Greenbelt for the past 17 years and is presently completing his second term as a member of the Greenbelt city council.

Putens has been employed by the federal government for the past 12 years, serving in a variety of management positions for the U.S. Department of Labor. He has received numerous commendations and special achievement awards for excellence and has been nominated to several U.S. Senate Commissions and Special Task Forces. He is also president of his own company providing consultative services in the areas of personnel and labor relations.

Putens is also active in a variety of community affairs. He is a member of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club, the Greenbelt Arts Center, co-founder and Chairman of the Greenbelt Arts Trust Corporation, the Greenbelt Jaycees, Citizens for Greenbelt, and a charter member of the Greenbelt Consumer Co-op. He is also a past member of the Board of Directors for the Windsor Green Homeowners Association for which he held office from 1978 to 1985. Prior to his election to council, Putens served as the Chairman of the Community Relations Advisory Board (CRAB) which was instrumental in the establishment of the Greenbelt Crime Prevention Committee. He currently serves as council liaison to the Crime Prevention Committee.

At the county, state and national levels, Putens is a member of the Prince Georges Municipal Association and the Maryland Municipal League. He currently serves on two Council of Governments (COG) committees — the Human Resources Policy Committee and the Public Safety Policy Committee. He also serves on the Finance, Administration and Intergovernmental Relations Policy Committee and the Human Development Policy Committee for the National League of Cities (NLC).

Putens is a graduate of the University of Maryland where he earned a degree in Microbiology. While attending school at night he was employed in various research capacities for numerous medical and research development companies. He co-authored several patents dealing with minimizing air pollutants.

The Putens family, Ed, Becky, and their three children, Kim 16, Ryan 6, and Amy 4, reside at 8225 Canning Terrace.

Valerie Siegel

16 Maplewood Court

Valerie Siegel came to Greenbelt in 1977 as the wife of 25-year Greenbelt resident Harold Aryai Siegel. Together they have raised their eight children at 16 Maplewood Court in Lakeside. Shortly after coming to Greenbelt, Siegel entered the University of Maryland, where she served on the Academic Advisory Council to the Dean of Undergraduate Studies and the Paralegal Advisory Board. She was a member of Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society and President of Alpha Sigma Lambda Honor Society. She is listed in the 1980-81 Edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

After graduating summa cum laude in 1981, Siegel became an instructor for the University of Maryland University College teaching Foundation in Behavioral and Social Sciences. She helped develop, and then later re-wrote, Issues in Criminal Justice, which she also taught for three years. She has recently completed the course development for Alcohol in American Society, a six-credit course to be offered by UMUC beginning this fall. While teaching at UMUC, Siegel earned her Juris Doctorate from the University of Baltimore, where she served on the Honor Court and was a member of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity.

Admitted to the Maryland Bar in January 1985, Siegel is a member of the Maryland State Bar Association Special Committee on Adolescent Alcohol Addiction and Alcohol and Drug Abuse, and the Committee on Education. She is also a member of the American Bar Association the Prince Georges County Bar Association, the Women's Bar Association of Maryland, the Prince Georges Women Lawyers Caucus, and the American Trial Lawyers Association. As part of her private practice of general law in Greenbelt, Siegel provides legal crisis intervention to referrals from the Prince Georges Commission for Women.

In addition to her family, academic, and professional involvement, Siegel has been active with local community organizations in various capacities. She has coached C.Y.O. softball and has served the Eleanor Roosevelt High School PTSA as both Editor of the Roosevelt Candle and vice-president of the PTSA. She is an active member of the Greenbelt Crime Prevention Committee and was co-chairperson of the Citizens for the Bond Issue Committee this past spring.

A native of Charleston, West Virginia, Siegel first moved to Prince Georges County 20 years ago. She is the daughter of Carl Rose, Jr. of Green Ridge House and Julia Rose of Laurel Hill Road.

Richard R. Pilski

106 Rosewood Court

Dick Pilski and his wife, Claire, a registered nurse, have been Greenbelt residents for 26 years. They have three children, Richard Jr., Nancy and Chris, and a granddaughter, Erica Bridgette Young.

Pilski is currently employed by the Maryland Department of Transportation as a community relations officer. He retired from Prentice-Hall after 24 years as a tax consultant.

Pilski is a native of Kingston, Pa. He attended King's College in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and holds a B.S. in Business Administration from Syracuse University. He served three years in the Navy in World War II. He has served on the faculty of Prince Georges Community College where he taught federal taxes, marketing, advertising and salesmanship courses.

Dick was the first president of the Lakewood Citizens' Association, on the board of directors of the Greenbelt Credit Union, and on St. Hugh's building fund committee and school board. He was a coach of a Little League minor league team and is a citizenship counselor for Prince Georges County boy scouts. He has been a ride-a-bike participant from its inception and a telethon participant for cerebral palsy for six years.

Pilski was the first municipal official appointed to the county tax differential committee that established the rules for tax rebates to cities for duplicate services. These guidelines have resulted in thousands of dollars of rebates to Greenbelt.

He has the longest length of service on council in Greenbelt history, 22 years. He has served as mayor four terms, mayor pro tem four terms and councilmember for three terms. Counting his early service on the Advisory Planning Board and Charter Review Board he has served the city for more than 25 years. He was president of the Senior Citizens Housing that established the Ridge Road Center.

Pilski has served on the executive committee of the Maryland Municipal League for six years, and the Maryland Transportation Committee for ten. With the Washington Metropolitan Council of Governments, he was on the board of directors for eight years, and served on the Energy Policy Committee, Public Policy Committee, Environmental Committee, and the Executive Commit-

Joseph Isaacs

Julian Court

Joe Isaacs has been a civic and volunteer activist since 1966, during years of residence in Maryland, Missouri, and New York. A resident of Greenbelt for 10 years, he and his wife Deborah (who was Greenbelt's first Cable TV access coordinator) own a home on Julian Court. Previously Isaacs lived at Springhill Lake. Isaacs was selected in 1984 as Metropolitan Washington Volunteer Activist of the Year, as Prince Georgian of the Year, and as an Outstanding Young Man of America by the National Jaycees. Isaacs was appointed to the City's Advisory Planning Board in 1983. Previously, he served on the Park and Recreation Advisory Board. He is also a member of the Maryland Citizen Planning Association.

President of the Boxwood Civic Association since 1982, Isaacs founded Boxwood's Crime Watch program in March of last year. On citywide matters, he recently served as Co-chairperson of Citizens FOR the Bond Issue and was Chairman of the Save Our (Co-op) Services (S.O.S.) Com-

Isaacs is a Director of the Greenbelt Cultural Arts Center, vice president of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club, and a member of Citizens for Greenbelt. Friends of the Greenbelt News Review, the Greenbelt Charrette Survey Committee, and the Greenbelt Historical Preservation Museum Committee.

Isaacs, 34, was born and raised in New York City's South Bronx, the first generation American son of immigrant parents. He graduated Phi Beta Kappa from the City College of New York in 1972. In 1975, he earned Summa Cum Laude honors from the graduate program in Health Services Management at the University of Missouri, which selected him as "Outstanding Student."

Isaacs is now the Associate Director of the National Health Policy Forum, a non-partisan, public health policy research center and in-service education program for White House, Congressional and federal executive agency health affairs specialists. He is also on the faculty of the Department of Health Sciences at George Washington University's School of Medicine. His previous positions have involved management consulting and auditing, financial and strategic planning, governmental liaison, and regulatory and legislative analysis.

Isaacs was appointed by the Prince Georges County Executive to serve on the Governing Board of the Southern Maryland Health Systems Agency (which is responsible for ensuring the rational allocation and development of health care programs and services within a four-county region). In 1984, he was elected to the Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Washington Area Council of Health Planning Agencies and also sits on committees of several national associations.

Antoinette Bram

104 Tamarisk Court

Toni Bram, a 25-year resident of Greenbelt was successful in her first campaign for a city council seat in 1983. Prior to that, Bram was active in many local, civic and volunteer organizations in Greenbelt since first moving to Plateau Place in 1960. She currently lives at 104 Tamarisk Ct., where she and her husband, Ralph, have raised four children, Regina, Tim, Simone, and Jennifer. The Brams now have an extended family that includes a son-in-law, Allen, and two grandsons, William and Zachary.

Bram's interest in youth activities resulted in her appointment to Greenbelt's Parks and Recreation Advisory Board, where she served for four years as vice chairman. Subsequently, she served for two years on the Greenbelt Advisory Planning Board. Bram is a past president of the Greenbelt Homemakers Club and has been a Campfire Girls leader, board member of St. Hugh's C.Y.O., coach for Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club and C.Y.O., and board member and meet official of the Greenbelt Aquatic Boosters Club.

Bram is a 1980 honors graduate (Summa Cum Laude) of the University of Maryland, where she majored in urban studies. She is currently completing a Master's degree program at the University of Maryland in history and criminology.

Bram represents the Greenbelt City Council as a member of the Small Cities Advisory Committee of the National League of Cities. She was also appointed to the Internal Affairs Committee of the Maryland Municipal League. In addition, she has been a member of other committees: Washington Metropolitan Council of Governments, Prince Georges County Citizens Advisory Committee, Prince Georges Municipal Association, and liaison to Greenbelt's 50th Anniversary Committee. Bram was elected first President of the Prince Georges County Elected Municipal Women, which she co-founded in 1983.

In 1981, Bram was a consultant to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. Currently she works as assistant registrar, University College, University of Maryland. She is vice president of Alpha Sigma Lambda Honor Society and chairs the scholarship committee.

Proven - Dedicated Leader

TO MY FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS;

As most of you know, I have served as your mayor, mayor-pro-tem and councilman for the past twenty two years. I have considered this an honor, and believe that my dedication and leadership has made a noted difference to the progress and well being of our City of Greenbelt.

Greenbelt has seen many changes through the years, and I have always used the best judgement in making decisions that I felt would enhance our city. My record speaks for itself. I was instrumental in the Springhill Lake Youth Center, Ridge Road Center, and any other project the city has been involved in for the past twenty two years. Services have also increased as we grew, as the increase in the police department shows, and I have kept a careful eye on spending your tax dollars, while opposing undesirable zoning and development.

Looking to the future Greenbelt, we must complete the renovation of the Center Mall, be sure that we are secure in our homes and city, and protect from over development. The protection of the lake in its natural state is a must.

Greenbelt is looking forward to its "50th Anniversary". I hope with your support, that I will be serving you and your city during the occasion of its "50th Anniversary". I hope that I will be one of your choices for the city council on September 30th. Your vote will allow me to serve you at this very special time in our city's history.

KIDS SOCCER

by Sue Cornelius

Greenbelt's 6 year old team played a very tough New Carrollton team this past Saturday and tied them 1-1. April Collmer scored the goal for Greenbelt, while Robert Fiedler, Joey Ambrose, Chris Barber and Mike Mehringer played great defense, keeping New Carrollton to one goal.

The 8 year olds played each other and Greenbelt I won, with Scott Lubey scoring twice, and Miguel Boardman-Pereira scoring once. Jason Everhart played sweeper, keeping the other team scoreless.

Greenbelt's 11 year old county team took a tough loss at Chevy Chase Sunday. Bjorn Johnson, playing his second very strong game scored Greenbelt's first goal and Devon Ruiz scored the other goal. Mike Cook was impressive while playing wing, and Philip Larkin was amazing in the defensive zone.

The Greenbelt 15 year olds played each other and tied 1-1. Allison Schacter scored for Greenbelt I from a cross by Daryl Brooks. And for Greenbelt 2, Sasha Gomelsky scored on a cross by Shaun Douglas.

A Continuing Commitment:

TO MAINTAIN THE UNIQUE CHARACTER OF GREENBELT

I will continue to use every opportunity to maintain the distinctive quality of our community. Whether it is saving a stand of trees as part of an agreement with a developer, providing strong opposition to increased density, holding developers to strict environmental standards or working to acquire additional Parkland, my goal is the same -preserving Greenbelt.

TO PROVIDE ESSENTIAL SERVICES

During my twelve years on Council, I have established a record for sound and prudent budgeting. Balance and perspective are required to allocate the city's resources in a responsible and prudent fashion. Increased development, while expanding our tax base, has created demand for additional services. I will work to achieve economies where possible, and to promote additional sources of revenue from state and county governments.

Transportation continues as a major issue for Greenbelt. I support an improved Metrobus operation, early completion of Metrorail to Greenbelt, and development of a limited intra-city transportation system. Walkways and bikeways are still needed to traverse the major highways that separate our neighborhoods. Additional development should not occur without needed highway and street improvements.

I have supported and will continue to support Greenbelt's excellent public safety program including our police force, animal control efforts, and crime prevention initiatives.

Four weeks ago I began a campaign for reelection to the Greenbelt City Council by promising to discuss important issues in the News Review, in association newsletters, in my literature, at your doorsteps, and at four scheduled candidate forums.

Greenbelt citizens have reacted favorably to both the tone and the content of my campaign. The support and the help I have received is greatly appreciated.

If reelected, I will continue to bring a brand of leadership to Greenbelt city government that is open, independent and thoughtful.

When you exercise your right to vote on September 30, I hope you will choose to continue my service as an experienced and qualified voice on your city council.

Senator Green Requests Conservator Act on S&L

In a letter dated Sept. 17, to the newly appointed Director of the Maryland Deposit Insurance Fund and the Conservator, of Community Savings & Loan, Melville S. Brown, State Senator Leo E. Green has described graphically the unique plight in which Greenbelt depositors of Community Savings and Loan find themselves.

"Everyone with money in a savings and loan with a withdrawal ban is hurting," says Sen. Green in his letter. "But Greenbelt's problems are special. Most people there did not have their money in Community because they sought very high interest rates and were willing to take the risk, but because they stuck with the institution after a merger was forced and Community took over Twin Pines, a cooperatively-owned savings and loan which was local in origin and in the makeup of its directors. They are now, in effect, being punished for loyalty to what they perceived to be a community-based institution."

The letter goes on to describe the hardships is that many of the depositors are suffering, describing the situation as "little short of a disaster" for the citizens of this city, and calls upon the new conservator to consider exemptions from the withdrawal ban for hardship cases such as persons who have been forced to delay medical care because they cannot get access to the money necessary to pay the difference not covered by insurance or Medicare, and persons who cannot meet their rent or mortgage payments because their ready cash was needed for unforeseen emergencies or expenses.

Sen. Green also calls attention to the failure of Community and its subsidiary, EPIC Mortgage, to respond to an offer from Greenbelt Homes, Inc. to purchase the estimated $5-$7 million in mortgage loans held by Community or EPIC on behalf of the Share Loan Service Corporation (SLSC), a private mortgage banking company in which GHI holds substantial stock.

"As a state senator, I believe the State of Maryland can and must do better," writes Sen. Green. "We owe our citizens a response — one that is timely, informative and to the point."

Greenbelters Score On National Merit

Greenbelters Kirsten A. Lowrey, Christopher E. Michels and Jeffrey D. Salay have been named National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists. The three are students at Eleanor Roosevelt High School and are among twenty Roosevelt scholars achieving that honor this fall.

To qualify, students had to take the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test in 1984. Semifinalists are named on a state allocation basis and are the highest scores in each state. They represent less than half of one percent of a state's secondary school graduating seniors.

Youth Football Update

by Jeff Keir

Kevin Thompson returned a punt 75 yards for a score to spark the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club's 125 lb. football team to a 7-0 victory over Marlboro last Saturday, September 21. Running Back George Clinedinst scored the extra point. He was the team's workhorse in the backfield with over 10 carries. Also on offense Danny Kellaheer caught a pass for a 21 yard gain and a first down. Defensive lineman Robert Box (one sack) and Jack Trumbull (two sacks) kept pressure on the Marlboro offense. The 125 lb. team played well on defense. The 125 lb. team plays Kettering this Saturday morning, September 28, 9:30 a.m. at Braden Field.

The Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club's 85 lb. Football team is off to a great start this season. After two games they hold a 1-0-1 record. On September 14, the team battled a tough Forestville team to a 6-6 tie. Greenbelt scored first late in the first quarter with a touchdown pass to Adam Patton. Forestville came back to tie the game in the third quarter. The Greenbelt defense held off a late drive by the Forestville team, stopping them inside the ten yard line when the final whistle blew. Defensive standouts were Jamie Brignoli and Billy Orndol. Tommy Ray and Adam Patton were offensive standouts.

The 85 lb. team battled College Park on Saturday, September 21. The offense took command of the game early as the team rolled suit. Wayne Williams of the GHI board, however, warned that caution should be exercised, lest such a suit would keep money tied up even longer.

Betty Maffay told of having her daughter "kicked out" of Prince Georges Community College because her tuition check had been returned. "We are being treated like criminals," she exclaimed. A woman from West Virginia told of how her difficulties in cashing checks drawn on her account in that state had forced her to open an account in Greenbelt. "And now look what . . ." she concluded.

Even the Methodist Church is in trouble. Ruth Colby told of how the church could not pay off its bond holders, of whom she was one, because the church's money was tied up in Community S&L.

Jim Bates had sent letters to each of the recipients of his returned checks stating that the problem was because the governor had failed to fulfill his commitment to straighten out the situation. "The governor lied," he said his letters said. He then sent copies of the letters to the governor.

"What happened in Ohio?" somebody asked. "They got it straightened out. They have a better government," came back the answer.

After the election of Lange and Barnes, Batra accepted volunteers to complete a steering committee. Irene Hensel, Alex Chavrid, and Jerry Conway were accepted to bring the committee to five members. Lange advised that he would meet with the steering committee. His next plan is to set up a meeting to which the governor will be invited, so that he will have an opportunity to address the many issues which have been raised.

on to a 20-0 victory. Quarterback Brian Smith threw two touchdown passes (of 20 and 60 yards), to David Crooks, and also ran for one. Marlo Small and Brian Smith also ran for extra points. The key to this victory was strong blocking from the front line, including Richard Mills, Jamie Brignoli, Ricardo Leonard, Yusef Fletcher and Anthony Lymus. The defense also played superbly. The team is now preparing for its next game against Hyattsville on September 28 at Noon at Braden Field.

Penalty Waiver Proposed

County Executive Parris Glendening and County Councilman Richard Castaldi have announced that a resolution will be introduced in the County Council to grant a waiver of penalties for late payment of County property taxes to those individuals who have their assets frozen in certain Maryland savings and loan associations. The 12 percent annualized penalty will be waived for individuals who have the bulk of their savings desposited in Old Court Savings and Loan, Merrit Savings and Loan, Community Savings and Loan and First Maryland Savings and Loan. Property taxes are generally due on or before October 1 of each year.

Glendening and Castaldi also indicated that the resolution will also waive late payment penalties for Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission taxes, Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission taxes, and front foot benefit charges that are levied against certain property in the County.

Property owners must apply for the waiver to the County's Office of Finance. Proof of substantial deposits in the affected institutions and the absence of resources elsewhere will be required. For more information, contact the Prince Georges County Office of Finance at 952-3740.

Free Bus to A.T.O.M. Meeting

(See Map Below)

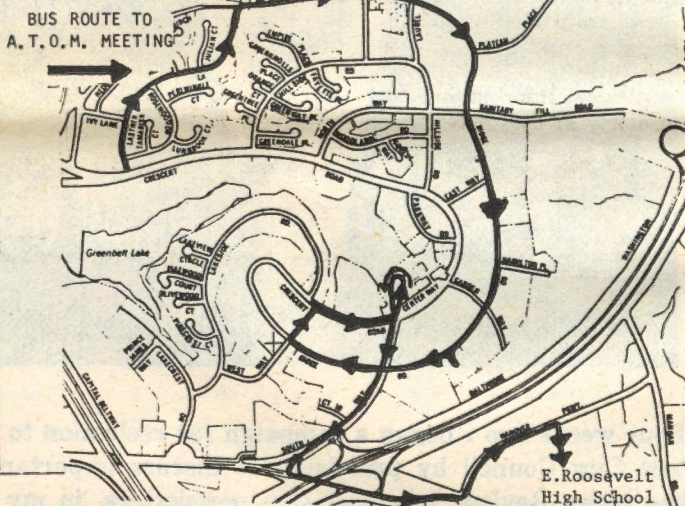

Transportation to the A.T.O.M. (Access To Our Money) sponsored meeting regarding Community Savings & Loan on Tuesday, October 1, will be provided by the GREENBELT CONNECTION. Beginning at 6:45 p.m., the bus will leave Crescent and Lastner Lane, travel up Lastner to Ridge Road and along Ridge to Green Ridge House, arriving approximately 7 p.m. From Green Ridge House, the bus will go to Suburban Bank at the Roosevelt Center via Ridge Road, Westway and Crescent Roads. From the Center, the bus will follow Southway to Greenbelt Road and to Eleanor Roosevelt High School arriving at approximately 7:15 p.m.

Riders can be picked up at street corners anywhere along this route. (Please flag down the bus!) Persons unable to get to a bus stop but needing transportation, can call the GREENBELT CONNECTION at 474-4100 for other arrangements. Please call before noon on Monday, September 30.

Return transportation will be provided after the meeting.

No fare will be charged.

Job Interview Skills

People who freeze up when they go on a job interview can reduce anxiety and build effective interviewing skills as well as learn the key elements of the interview and how to prepare responses to make the best impression. They will have the opportunity to videotape a mock interview and observe their own performances. A professional career counselor will help people learn to approach an interview with confidence.

Prince Georges Community College will offer a class on career counseling on Tuesdays, October 8 and 15, 6-10 p.m. in the Greenbriar Community Building Terrace Room. There is a fee.

For further information, call 441-1096.

Health Department Warns Of Measles Threat

The Maryland State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene is alerting residents of Maryland, particularly those in Prince Georges County and the surrounding counties, of the threat of measles due to the unusually high number of cases of the disease confirmed in the state so far this year.

Parents are advised to check their children's immunization records to ascertain adequate protection against measles. All children should receive the vaccine at 15 months of age.

Measles usually begins with a few days of cold-like symptoms, such as a running nose, inflammation of the eyes, cough and high fever, followed by the development of a rash. If a child develops such symptoms parents should notify their doctor or local Health Department by phone. The phone call is important to minimize the number of other persons who may come in contact with the case when the child is brought to the doctor's office.

Volunteers Needed

Prince Georges County Department of Social Services needs volunteers to work in their information and referral center one day a week, Monday through Friday. Volunteers are needed especially on Mondays and Wednesdays. The work consists of answering phones and assisting people needing food stamps and or Medicaid appointments. The volunteers work at the appointment center located in the First United Methodist Church in Hyattsville. People who enjoy helping people, should call 779-5970 and ask for Pat or Kathy.

Solution to Treacherous Crescent Road School Crossing Requested of Council

by Mary Lou Williamson

On September 9 a group of residents came to ask their city council for help in safely crossing Crescent Road near the St. Hugh's school. Traffic, they say, has increased in both volume and speed to the point where it is unsafe for the young and the old to cross the road and dangerous for the rest.

Suggestions ranged broadly, but most expressed a strong preference for a traffic light. Woodland Hills Homes president Mark Davis described for council what they envision—"a visible light, preferably hanging over head, that could be manually operated by a crossing guard while children are arriving or leaving St. Hugh's and Center schools and by pedestrians. At other times the light could blink yellow, caution." Davis also urged enforcement of the 15 mph speed limit. He reminded council that the police chief's car was nearly rear-ended by a motorist recently, who did not expect the car ahead to meet the speed limit required by the flashing lights.

"I have watched cars come to the skirt of the crossing guard before stopping," Betty Timor, Center School PTA president told council. Timor, who lives on Woodland Way, says she knows parents from her area who walk their young children to school to insure a safe crossing of Crescent Road.

Boxwood Civic Association's board voted "unanimous support for the city to solve the problem," said president Joe Isaacs.

Criteria

Prior to installation of either a traffic light or a multi-way stop, an engineering study must be made. City Manager James K. Giese reported to council. State standards exist for all traffic devices, he explained. "the city is obligated to comply with those standards." For example, a multi-way stop requires that the total average volume of traffic exceed 500 vehicles per hour on the through street and 200 per hour on the side street—a criteria this intersection does not meet. In passing, Giese remarked to council that neither do a lot of other multi-way stops in Greenbelt and pointed out that the city could find itself challenged in a law suit if an accident occurred at one of these intersections.

"A school zone can be an exception," Giese continued, "if there are insufficient breaks in the traffic to allow pedestrians to cross."

Pat Molden pointedly told council it is better to risk a suit for an improper traffic device in order to provide needed protection for children. A crossing guard would continue to be needed for school children, she urged, but should be provided by the city if the county could not continue the service. Many children involved in sports and other youth programs after school also use that crossing, she said, frequently at or after dark during the winter months.

Problem

Safety of pedestrians and vehicles along this stretch of Crescent Road has been a thorny problem over the years. Should the hill in front of St. Hugh's church be cut down to improve visibility or would that encourage drivers to go faster? Where is the safest place for pedestrians to cross? St. Hugh's children, Giese related, used to cross at the top of the hill where visibility is best. The crossing was changed by the county police crossing guards to its present location at the stream valley park walkway to accommodate the children in the north end of town that now walk to Center School. The crossing with double sets of flashing lights and "children crossing" signs is well marked. Giese commented. At no time has the crosswalk been at the intersection of the streets, as Northway has no sidewalk.

Giese posed the problem of where to put a traffic control device—at the current location where the pedestrians are accustomed to crossing or at the street intersection which might seem more logical to drivers as the place to stop.

Police Studies

In response to Davis's letter to council last July, the police department began a study of the problems. Lt. James Craze in a report to Giese noted that some additional police enforcement was provided at that crossing last spring after police found traffic along Crescent Road to be exceeding the speed limit. Craze, however, found problems with installing either a traffic light—"the children are better served by a crossing guard who has better control of the children's actions"—or stop signs—visibility is limited by the hill and by the early morning sun.

In response to a related request from Davis, the police department conducted a radar study of traffic speeds on Northway. Sgt. Gregory Lynn found that 62.7 percent of the vehicles traveled at or below the 25 mph limit; another 25.8 percent exceeded the limit by 5 mph or less; and, only 1.3 percent exceeded the limit by more than 10 mph.

An inquiry to Joan Dawson, supervisor of the Prince Georges County Crossing Guards, elicited the response that the present location of the crossing, because of the hill and the sun, is "extremely treacherous for a crossing guard." She followed up with suggesting that a guard would probably still be approved for the intersection if a light were installed because of the very young ages of the children using the crossing. There would have to be a re-evaluation, though, she said.

Council's Response

The city manager suggested council look at three options:

1) a pedestrian-activated light at the present location, 2) a light at the intersection of Northway and Crescent Road to include both vehicles and pedestrians or 3) a combination in which the two intersections, one for pedestrians at the stream valley walk and one for vehicles at Northway, would be regulated by a single system of lights.

Council member Toni Bram took exception to option two, asking, "If you change the pedestrian crossing closer to Northway, where would it go?" Council member Tom White identified information the staff should gather:

1) what is the current level of enforcement, 2) are the present warning signs adequate (one set of flashing lights was not working at the time) and 3) a traffic engineering study.

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld pledged council's support for better enforcement. "We will back the speed limit. Hold the speed down." In response to a plea for special help on getting a traffic light from the man who got one for Windsor Green, councilmember Ed Putens said, "I'll work with you."

Bram asked staff what could be done immediately, for example, rumble strips. Engineering studies take time. The problem is, said Giese, rumble strips rumble in the neighborhood. The city had experimented with them briefly about ten years ago. "How about scoring the pavement," she continued. To which Giese again replied, "If they rumble for the driver, they rumble in the neighborhood."

"In the meantime, we already have too many stop signs and lights," said Bob Kramer, Woodland Way. "We need people to go at the speed limit, especially the traffic which is avoiding the construction at Greenbelt Road and Kenilworth Ave."

"What we need," countered Bill Mayhew, "is a commitment by the police. Scoring the people in the pocketbook would be more effective."

CONSIDERING A CHANGE IN RESIDENCE?

There are three key elements to consider:

- A) Your needs: things you positively have to have.
- B) Your wants: things you'd like to have, but don't necessarily need.
- C) Your qualifications:
  - 1) Your initial investment (cash to move in)
  - 2) Your total income (gross yearly income)
  - 3) Your debt service (total indebtedness)

I would like the opportunity to discuss with you how we can combine these three factors to assist you and your family in achieving your housing goals both within Greenbelt and the metropolitan area - of course with no obligation.

Greenbelters Adopt 157 Trees

by Michael Burchick

The "Adopt-A-Tree" project sponsored by the 50th anniversary committee was well received by many Greenbelters. For this year's fall planting, 90 donors have adopted 157 trees, 88 for planting on city property and the balance on private property. The Holy Cross Lutheran Church adopted the most trees, 21 Bradford Pears. While requests for tree applications for the 1985 fall planting are still being made, they are being turned down. Applications were closed as of Labor Day and will be resumed in the spring of 1986.

Except for the commemorative red maple tree that will be planted on Sunday, October 13, at "Buddy Attick" Park (more details later), 144 trees will be delivered during the week of October 20. The originally scheduled delivery date of October 6 could not be met. Delivery of eight Northern Red Oak and three Willow Oak trees has been revised to next spring, a better planting time for these two species.

All private donors will be notified in advance when their tree will be delivered. Planting instructions will be furnished to each donor. In view of the unusually dry weather, the hole for the tree should be dug in advance and filled with water to aid in faster root growth.

Trees planted on city property by the Public Works Department will be tagged with the donor's name. For reference purposes a city map will identify the tree site and the name of the donor. To the degree possible, every consideration will be given to those who requested a particular tree site. The final decision for all tree sites will be made by George Smith, Director of Public Works, and JoAnn Volk, Landscape Architect.

Please call 474-6587 for answers to further questions.

Women's Soccer

by Sue Cornelius

As predicted in the News Review last week, Greenbelt's Women's Soccer Team won their game in Columbia last Sunday 3-2. Those scoring were Ann Herink, Lauren McCarthy and Debbie Reese, with great defensive playing by Mary Reilly, Jenney Tolzman and Cathy Williams. After two very close games, the team worked together to guarantee this win. Congratulations.

P.G. Community College Offers Printmaking Course

Prince Georges Community College is now accepting registrations for a printmaking course. Registrations end three days prior to the class starting date.

"Printmaking Without a Press" a four-session course, will be held from 10 a.m. until noon, on Mondays, beginning October 7 and ending October 28 at the Springhill Lake Community House. There is a fee.

For information, call 322-0875.

A Vision for the Future

Gil Weidenfeld has long advocated a continuing effort to keep Greenbelt a nice place to live.

In this endeavor he has led the way to improve the quality of life by:

- acquiring more parkland to protect our green belt
- protecting the environment within the City
- continuing outstanding City services
- advocating low-density residential development
- providing a pleasant place for our senior citizens
- maintaining recreational facilities for all our citizens

Gil Weidenfeld's vision of the future for Greenbelt consists of forging a strong partnership with the Citizens of this City.

In order to maintain that partnership and move into a future that preserves a "Greenbelt is Great" spirit, Gil Weidenfeld needs your help on election day.

Council Sees Board Reports On Tidler and Smith-Ewing

by Andy Markowitz

The Greenbelt Advisory Planning Board earlier this month approved and submitted to the city council two reports on preliminary subdivision plans for the Tidler and Smith-Ewing developments along Hanover Parkway.

The plans, which divide the 104-acre properties into four zones, two for residential and two for commercial development, "reflect the concepts presented" in the rezoning of the properties, according to the board report, presented to the council at its September 9 meeting.

The rezoning plans were approved by the county council June 24.

In other business, the board also presented reports on proposed building signage for the Martin's Crosswinds catering facility in the Maryland Trade Center Park and on vegetation along Crescent Road.

The plans for the new developments split the Tidler property, to be called Greenbrook, into three parts: one and two for single-family detached homes and townhouses, respectively, and totalling 74 acres, and three, to be commercially zoned and covering 9.5 acres. The 21.8 acre Smith-Ewing property is to be used entirely for commercial development.

The properties are located east of Hanover Parkway and south of Greenbelt Road, extending as far east as Mandan Road and as far south as Schrom Hills Park, and will mark the first commercial developments on the east side of Hanover Parkway. They are slated to include 109 single-family homes, 232 townhouses and a 175,000 square-foot office building (Tidler), as well as one mid- and two low-rise office buildings and a 140-unit motel (Smith-Ewing).

The board, in recommending approval of the plans, made several recommendations to the council: to correct the alignment of Ora Glen Drive; inclusion of picnic facilities and sitting areas in the commercial zones; and inclusion of interior pathways which would tie in with proposed trails in the residential areas of Greenbrook to provide access to Schrom Hills Park.

In addition, the reports stressed the need for a new study of traffic for the intersections of Greenbelt Road-Hanover Parkway and Greenbelt Road-Baltimore/Washington Parkway-Greenway Center. The study, the report said, should include developments which either have occurred since May 1984 (when the last traffic study of the area was made) or are expected to occur before the Tidler and Smith-Ewing projects are completed, such as the Sunrise apartments and the Cafritz townhouse development.

Finally, the board recommended requiring a six-foot sidewalk adjacent to Hanover Parkway, "to provide for a pedestrian/bikeway... from Greenbelt Road to Good Luck Road." Standard city sidewalks are four feet wide.

The main obstacle to approval of the plans involves the townhouse area of the Tidler property. An earlier plan for the zone, proposing to satisfy county requirements for usable green space by putting recreation facilities in adjoining Schrom Hills Park, was rejected by the city Park and Recreation Advisory Board, which expressed a desire for more parkland in the new developments.

The developers proposed two plans for the area. Alternate A divides the zone into three parcels totalling 3.89 acres, about half of which would be floodplain. Alternate B, which the board recommended for approval, proposed one contiguous parcel of 6.34 acres along Hanover Parkway and bordering Schrom Hills Park, with about two acres of floodplain. Both plans include walking trails "to meet the remaining recreation requirement," according to the report.

In recommending Alternate B, the board noted that "the provision of recreation facilities needs further determination" as to whether it meets county code requirements for usable green space. The report also urged the council to pursue having the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission purchase the floodplain area from Tidler, with the funds generated to be put back into the development "in the form of recreation facilities such as play areas, sitting areas, and a multi-purpose court."

The probable next step for the developers is the October 17 meeting of the county Planning Board, which will review the subdivision plans. In the interim, further discussion with the city council is planned. While the city council does not have the power to make changes in the plans, it may make recommendations, which are often incorporated into plans by the county board. However, the swearing in of the new city council October 7, and the stated reluctance of the current council to set an agenda beyond that date, may further delay consideration of the board's recommendations.

Martin's

The Martin's report recommended approval of one of two signs for the catering facility. While favoring an 8 by 24½ foot sign for the front of the Martin's building, the board recommended denial of a 6 by 39 foot sign for the building's west (or Beltway/Parkway) side on the grounds that it would be "a detriment to highway beautification" and is "considerably out of scale with other signage in Greenbelt." The board also recommended that the council eliminate the proposed logo for both signs, a champagne glass, "as it may raise some community sensitivities about it encouraging alcohol consumption."

In the last of its four reports presented at the meeting, the board, noting the council's recent decision to clear away the underbrush along Crescent Road from Greenhill Road to the Lakewood Valley Park Path, reaffirmed its feeling that "the city should strive for maximum visual buffering between the road and structures on the adjacent land" through use of vegetation. The board commented that, because Crescent Road is "a major gateway to the city," the issue is one of city-wide importance, adding that any replanting should be "naturalistic" and be made with consideration of impact on the area's "ecological balance."

All four reports were approved unanimously by the board before submission to the council.

House Okays Hoyer Bid For Parkway Funding

The House of Representatives September 12 approved the fiscal year 1986 funding bill for transportation programs, including $6.5 million requested by Rep. Steny Hoyer for reconstruction of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

The bill also includes language, authored by Hoyer, repealing a 1970 requirement that the 19-mile federal portion of the Parkway be conveyed to the State of Maryland. A similar measure, introduced by Hoyer last year was approved by the House but not considered by the Senate.

Additionally, the bill includes $250 million for Metro subway construction. This is the full appropriations level requested by Metro for fiscal year 1986.

The bill represents a "significant action to improve the transportation infrastructure in the Washington metropolitan area," Hoyer said when the bill was approved by the House Appropriations Committee earlier this month. "With the growing development along the Baltimore-Washington Parkway corridor, and the resultant increase in traffic, the Parkway is in desperate need of improvements."

Hoyer added his support for the Metro appropriation, which he termed "a welcome sign that the federal commitment to Metro will continue." Calling completion of the subway system "one of the top priorities" for local governments, Hoyer said that federal funding at the current level through fiscal year 1988 (which Congress has already authorized), "is absolutely necessary to keep to the construction schedule."

The overall transportation bill was approved by the committee on September 5 before consideration by the full House the following week. Next the bill goes to the Senate.

CITY NOTES

The general crew repaired roadway shoulders with asphalt, installed traffic control signs, and repainted street marking lines. The crew also assisted the contractor who is repairing the spillway at Attick Park.

The parks crew cut grass in playgrounds, repaired assorted playground equipment, and worked on maintenance of the golf course in Springhill Lake and ballfields.

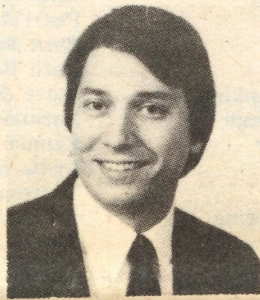

The water level of the lake has been lowered approximately seven feet to allow the contractor to begin repairing the dam and for the lake cleanup held recently.

Two juniper plants planted in the flowerbed at the entrance to Attick Park were stolen.

What is splinting?

Teeth can sometimes become loose as a result of injury or advanced periodontal (gum) disease. Splinting involves joining these teeth to each other and to stronger adjacent teeth to give mutual strength and support. The principle is similar to using one or more cross boards to connect the individual upright units of a wooden fence to make one strong structure.

There are 2 methods of splinting, internal and external. Internal splinting usually involves joining two adjacent teeth using preformed wire or perforated metal strips inserted in prepared notches in each tooth. A plastic filling covers and protects the splinting material. This method is generally employed in long term treatment.

External splinting has traditionally involved wire, silk, plastic or a combination of these as a temporary support for loose or injured teeth. In recent years a new form of splinting has been developed as a variation of the bonded bridge. In this technique, a metal casting is made which covers the back of each tooth in the splinted area. This technique allows for long term support of weakened teeth without the undesirable complications of internal splinting or full crowns.

Summer, 1935 50 Years Ago

by Don Volk

The federal government's planning efforts to develop new towns began in the early months of 1935, and by late spring had produced a number of significant achievements.

Congress had appropriated nearly $5 billion for public works projects (the largest single peacetime appropriation in U.S. history), Roosevelt had decided to include some new-town development in his plans, the Resettlement Administration (R.A.) had been established with Rexford Tugwell at its head in part to carry out these plans for new-town development, a decision had been made to locate one of the new towns near the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center in Maryland, and a couple of dozen other sites throughout the U.S. were being investigated as possibilities for additional new towns. During the summer of 1935, work continued at a feverish pace, but did not attract as much public attention.

The Resettlement Administration had been set up in April and had evolved three general goals; 1) to save marginal but viable farms with various kinds of aid; 2) to move rural families from unproductive farms to more fertile areas, and 3) to provide good housing in new communities on the edge of major urban areas for relocated farm families as well as urban families in the low to middle income brackets. The design and construction of Greenbelt was carried out as a part of this last goal. The Suburban Division was set up within the Resettlement Administration to supervise the planning and construction of the new communities. In the early summer of 1935 the initial planning staff for the new-town program was assembled to work on all of the new towns. Because a decision had been made on the location of Greenbelt and land acquisition had proceeded rapidly, planning began in earnest on the layout of the community.

In late July or early August, Rex Tugwell, head of the Resettlement Administration, and John Lansill, head of its Suburban Division, met with Tracy Augur, chief town planner for TVA. Augur was disturbed by what he had seen of the direction the planning for Greenbelt was taking. The engineers in charge of planning for the Beltsville site had produced an expensive and clumsy plan which called for 60 miles of streets laid out in a geometric pattern. The administrators were urged to turn the job over to professional planners. Tugwell was convinced that a basic reorganization should take place. The engineers were replaced with town planners, a separate team for each town. The chief of the Planning Section was transferred on August 16, 1935, and a search for his replacement began.

In late summer the planning staff moved into its new offices, the 54-room Walsh-McLean Mansion at 2020 Massachusetts Ave. near Dupont Circle in Washington. (The building now houses the Embassy of Indonesia.) The main ballroom was crammed with drawing tables; bathrooms and bedrooms were converted into offices and conference rooms. Marquis Childs, political columnist, recalled the enthusiasm of the planners who kept the lights burning far into the night at the McLean mansion — "They thought they were planning a new world."

The list of potential sites for new communities had been narrowed to 19 in April, and by August was further narrowed to nine. The cost was estimated to be $7,550,000 each, for a grand total of about 68 million dollars. This was the amount which Tugwell requested for the suburban towns program. A decision would not be made until the following month.

This Is What I Said*

"With respect to the bond fund, I shall, of course, adhere to Council's inference of equal division of the proceeds among the three categories of swimming pool construction, land acquisition, and public facilities improvements. I will do this because as co-chairperson of the Citizens for the Bond Issue Committee I gave my personal assurances to the voters of this city that the Bond funds will be appropriated in this manner. At that time I also voiced my preference for input concerning priority of projects not only from voters — but from ALL of the people who are footing the bill.

"I think we must keep in mind that careful financial planning, which included grants and matching funds, enabled Greenbelt to convert its 1969 $950,000 bond fund into $2.2 million worth of improvements. Thus, as we prioritize, it must be with the goal of realizing maximum return on our expenditures in all three areas. The second crucial consideration in prioritizing is timing. The third is quality of life in our community. Implementing these three considerations — cost efficiency, timing, and quality of life — there are essentially five 'first' projects which should begin almost simultaneously.

"The police station should be completed yesterday because the existing facility is barely functional putting public safety at risk.

"With respect to land acquisition and development - ACQUISITION is the priority due to cost and availability. Development should come only after the formulation of a visionary master plan addressing public needs and low maintenance costs. Greenbelt East deserves first consideration due to its dense construction and increasing residential occupancy, followed by the Lake Park where ad hoc development is costly both in terms of maintenance and destructive over-use — and where the acquisition of parcel 15 somehow fell between the cracks when the 1969 bond fund was appropriated.

"Cost efficient, visionary design of the Greenbelt Aquatic Center will be time-consuming and must therefore begin as expeditiously as possible.

"Two additional immediate construction priorities are completion of the Greenbelt Museum prior to the 50th anniversary celebration AND public works improvements because expensive equipment is rusting out in the elements which we as taxpayers must repair or replace.

"Large scale commercial and residential development affects too many quality of life issues to address adequately in the time permitted. I chose to discuss bond appropriations first because they are, essentially, quality of life issues. There is time to focus on a few more.

"A major quality of life assurance plan is embodied in the Crime Prevention Committee's 12 point program which was ratified and adopted by Council in November of last year and which has yet to be either funded or followed. The program calls for a police force of sufficient strength to maintain public safety in what has become basically an urban setting. And as a member of City Council I would vote to increase the size of the police force to a minimum of 40 sworn officers.

"The 12 point program also recommends integration of the business community into the existing crime prevention activities of the city. In addition to public safety advantages, this action offers economic advantages to residential consumers and could pave the way for commercial support of youth programs and other worthwhile cooperative ventures. Some such cooperative ventures could include intervention and prevention of drug/alcohol abuse; DWI prevention; Sr. Citizen Crime Prevention; and youth crime prevention - all of which are part of the 12 point program - all of which address the quality of life in our community.

"My proposal for the formation of an Architectural Advisory Board is also aimed at quality of life issues. As development continues it must be premised in environmental designs which foster both personal security and desirable use. As a member of council I would insist that design plans for new development squarely and adequately address these criteria.

"Obviously, our highway, roadway, and walkway networks must expand simultaneously with increasing development — and not after the fact.

"As I said, time does not permit full review of the broad but important question which you have raised. I hope I have given you at least some basic insight into how I would approach the issue from my council chair.

"Briefly in response to election and conditions of office. I favor a ballot question giving the voters an opportunity to state their preference for or against election of council members by district. I favor this because I am an advocate of public participation in the decision making process and because the voters cannot respond unless they are asked. While I do have some concern that highly qualified competent candidates might be excluded by a ward system, I have absolutely no personal preference and would concur graciously in the decision of the majority of the people.

"I do not favor the use of county voting lists for Greenbelt elections because Greenbelt is a unique and separate entity whose destiny should be guided by the people who are concerned about it — the people who care enough to register to vote here. In addition, I support municipal autonomy and I believe that city registration is an integral part of that autonomy.

"Finally, compensation for councilpersons is a difficult issue. On the one hand, when you consider the time invested by the present council, compensation of 50c an hour is probably an exaggeration. On the other hand, service to this city and its citizens is an honor and a privilege and might well be compensation enough. Because present compensation is clearly in line with, and if anything is well below, that of comparable municipalities in the county, perhaps we should begin at the status quo and augment it with cost of living increases as they are given to other city employees."

green space and its proper use. She also said that in the near future the new police facility should be a priority. She recalled that she had voted for a 30% increase in police strength over the last two years and said that she is "determined that we can make Greenbelt safe."

Bram recommended a phased approach to all development in the city—including parks, police, traffic control and swimming pools — so that the impact would not be so sudden that it would interrupt our daily living. In appealing for support on September 30, she said, "We can handle this second wave—you and I, together. And we will."

White

Thomas X. White, currently serving his sixth term on the city council, said every effort should be made to reduce the density of future growth and development and that no development should occur in advance of transportation and other essential public facilities. He emphasized legislation as one of the approaches to be used in attempting to control development. He said he had supported and would continue to support state and county laws which provide municipalities with better protective measures in the zoning process.

White advocated using "what leverage we have" at every opportunity; he cited the super-majority vote of the county council (required to grant zoning requests) which the city concerned opposes, as one of the types of leverage which can be used. He also appealed to residents for advice and support, saying that "the history of Greenbelt in fighting and controlling development has been that whenever we have the support of the citizens and the neighborhood associations, that's when we have our success—and we should continue that." He pointed to other measures also which the city council has to use to stay on top of the growth in the city, citing the sectional map amendment of the College Park-Greenbelt Master Plan as a "key element" in planning the densities of the undeveloped land in Greenbelt. He also noted that he supported additional city staff to provide the city with better staff support for planning and zoning issues.

White said that his position on city services, including police protection, is that there should be an appropriate balance in allocating city resources considering needs and priorities. He emphasized that there are competing needs and interests for a share in the available money. He pledged support for increases in police patrols and crime prevention efforts. He also listed other projects which he has supported in the past, such as Greenbelt CARES, the city transportation system, and park maintenance.

Weidenfeld

Gil Weidenfeld, serving his fourth term as mayor, said in regard to growth and development that, at least for the next few years, the city has to demand that the county provide no incentives for more development in or near East Greenbelt. In cases where the land is already zoned for commercial development, the city must try to get the best quality development possible. As a residential community, he advocated opposing high density and obtaining single-family home development where possible. He supports taking "tough stands" on development but warned against being so inflexible that the city will be ignored by the county. Where appropriate, he advocated obtaining "favorable compromises for ourselves in tough negotiations" and noted that the council had recently gotten support for this kind of negotiating from the homeowners' groups.

Weidenfeld, voicing his support for increased police personnel, noted that he had proposed increases of 30% in the police force in the last two years. He said that "public safety is a top priority with me. If we can't feel safe in Greenbelt, we are suffering a setback in the quality of life we have enjoyed here for many years."

Pilski

Mayor pro-tem Richard Pilski, pointing to his more than 20 years on council, pointed to the Springhill Lake Youth Center, Green Ridge House and the city administration building as some of the amenities he was instrumental in getting for the city. He said that he has supported the police department "each time there was a need" and has watched it grow from a department of nine men to its present size. He also noted that he has also "been very careful in watching how our money is spent." He said he had opposed undesirable building and development in the city for all these years. Looking to the future, Pilski outlined as priorities the completion of the Center Mall renovation, citizens' security in their homes, protection of the lake in its natural state and keeping it from being overdeveloped.

Pilski pointed to the upcoming 50th Anniversary celebrations and asked for the support of those present in the election so that he would be allowed to "serve at a very special time in this city's history."

Isaacs

Joseph Isaacs, president of the Boxwood Civic Association and one of the challengers, said that he had no intention of "making promises which, someday you will remind me, are unfulfilled." However, he said, he is committed to the preservation of the quality of life in Greenbelt. In regard to growth, he said he stands for managing the growth which is occurring, particularly to avert worsening of the hazardous traffic congestion, loss of green space and the overburdening of public services. He listed in detail the covenants and agreements he advocates which would contribute to this control: maximum density ceilings, traffic studies, site plan review of all new development, on-site recreational facilities to be provided by developers, mandatory dedication of parkland, replacement of certain trees if they were removed during development and adequate buffer strips. He said he would seek changes in the county regulations which severely hamper cities like Greenbelt in seeking to make determinations about "how we want our community to be developed." He also emphasized the importance of the master plan and the necessity of getting a time limit put on each subdivision plan so that "its proposed use can be reevaluated periodically to mesh with the current needs and preferences of the community."

Isaacs said that he believes in funding for adequate police and public works personnel in order to insure that Greenbelt remains a safe and clean place to live. He supported the new police station but emphasized that "we need to focus on the growing drug problem which we have turned our eyes away from too long."

Curtis

Steven Curtis, one of the challengers for a seat on the council, said that in his opinion the city had been for some years like a motorist who starts out on a trip with no map but a vague desire to go "someplace nice." He went on to say that he thinks the city has to decide where it wants to go. It needs comprehensive planning and a viable "master plan." He advocated a plan for each undeveloped parcel in the city so that the city would be ready to deal with development as it comes and so that it "would not be a guessing game on both our parts." He cited the Spellman pedestrian overpass as one instance where dissension could have been avoided if people had known the situation in the beginning and not later. He strongly recommended anticipating problems whenever possible and suggested that the city needs a long-range planning committee.

On the subject of the size of the police force, Curtis said that he thinks we "need both quantity and quality." He advocated creating the kind of police force which attracts personnel from other departments instead of "some kind of indenture agreement to insure they stay here." In order to achieve such a department, Curtis said, the city will have to increase pay and benefits to attract and hold qualified officers.

Q and A Period

During the question and answer period, the three major homeowner and community associations were each allowed to ask one question. The Vice-President of the Windsor-Green Homeowners Association, Tom Malone, got few differences in the responses to his question about whether the candidates envision more commercial development in East Greenbelt and whether each favors it. The candidates were unanimous in not favoring any more development ("if I had my druthers," as the mayor put it) but only Pilski spoke of a moratorium on development except around the Metro station. White said flatly that he favored no more development beyond what is in the ground and Isaacs said he doesn't agree with the argument that further development broadens the tax base and brings more usable tax revenues—"That isn't a reason," he said. Curtis, Weidenfeld, Siegel, Bram and Putens foresaw that more development was inevitable because the land is already zoned for commercial purposes. Planning for it and managing it would be the key, Curtis thought.

Gail Fischer, President of the Hunting Ridge Condominium Association, asked about the candidates' views on the development of Schrom Hills Park and the timing of the development. Putens envisioned a lake and a natural park, sometime in the next four years; Pilski warned against "ferris wheels" and said that he would favor something like the present lake park. Siegel agreed that she favored a natural setting but would like input from the community and the city's Parks and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB). White also advocated advice from PRAB and use of their system of classifying park areas. He said he would leave the type of amenities to the community.

Curtis advocated that the park be developed in two years and that it be planned to integrate with the existing parks. Weidenfeld pointed out that the city does not yet have title to the park, which complicates the question of timing. He personally would advocate a passive recreational setting but recognized that more structured facilities might be required. Bram noted that the realignment of Hanover Parkway will take a small part of the park and that that part cannot be developed until the parkway is settled. She also noted that some maintenance work (trees, shrubs) is needed because it is "pretty bare." Isaacs recommended a natural setting but added that input from the community associations will be needed. He also noted that money from the bond issue is available for development of the park.

The question from Greenbriar Community Association President Mike Vaccaro concerned support for Police Chief Frank Hutson's recommendation for an additional 10 police officers in the last budget process. He asked, "How did you or (for the challengers) would you have voted on this budget request?" Isaacs said that he favors additional police officers but was not sure that 10 were needed; he also noted that Boxwood residents had expressed their unwillingness to pay the extra taxes involved. Siegel said she would, if elected, vote for another four police officers, and, if still needed, a five-officer special enforcement unit.

White said he supported five additional officers and three additional administrative positions. He noted that this number had not required an increase in the tax rate, whereas the full 10 officers would have caused a considerable rise in taxes.

Curtis said he supported the acquisition of 10 additional officers and admitted that taxes would have to be raised to cover the cost. He also noted that this brings up another fallacy about development — that broadening the tax base will cover all the costs. "In reality," he said, "that often doesn't happen and it ends up being the residential homeowner that picks up that slack again and again and again."

Pilski said he would have to wait for the police chief's recommendation before deciding what he would support. He also pointed to the recommendation of a study of the police department which said the department actually had one more officer than needed. He said that there would be an increase in the police force, as much as possible.

Weidenfeld spoke of conflicting demands on the available resources from the various departments. He noted that the 10 additional officers would have cost a 10c increase in the city property tax rate. He further stated that the department staffing had increased 30% in the last two years, and is moving in the right direction. Bram, citing reports of a 76% increase in the murder rate in Prince Georges County in the first half of 1985, noted that she had pressed for seven additional officers last year. Putens said that he also pressed for seven new officers. For next year, he said he could see possibly five new officers but would have to look at the other departments' needs and tax revenues before he could decide.

About 45 persons, mostly from East Greenbelt, attended the candidates forum. The questions and candidates' responses were videotaped for broadcasting later in the week.

mation questionnaire dealing with city programs and services. (See questionnaire on page 18.) Additional election workers will be stationed at polling places to encourage voters to complete the form. About 44% of those voting in 1983 did so.

Some 3,222 Greenbelters are currently on the voter registration rolls. This is a minuscule gain over the 1983 total, but is almost an eight percent gain over the May 1985 capital improvements bond referendum figures (see table page 17.) Since 1983 there have been small increases in the number of registered voters in three of the city's four precincts, but a major decrease has occurred in Springhill Lake precinct 8.

There are more registered voters at North End's precinct 6. Center's precinct 3 is close behind with Greenbelt East Precinct 13 still further behind and Springhill Lake's precinct 8 a distant fourth.

Applications for absentee ballots may be obtained in the city clerk's office in the Municipal Building until noon Friday, September 27. The ballots must be returned to the city clerk no later than 6 p.m. on election day, Monday, September 30. Any qualified voter who is unable to vote in the election because of religious beliefs, physical condition or absence from the city on election day may vote by absentee ballot. Ballots may be obtained at the clerk's office and completed at the same time.

The population of Greenbelt is estimated at about 18,000. Approximately 14,000 persons 18 years and over are eligible to vote. The city has 8,555 housing units, with 2,898 in Springhill Lake; 1,198 in the Greenbriar/Glen Oaks developments; about 400 in Windsor Green/Glen Ora; 25 in Greenwood Village; 362 in Hunting Ridge and the remaining units in the core of the city (1,600 are GHI units). There is an average of 2.15 persons per household.

Vote Turnouts
Casting votes in the 1983 council election were 1,898 Greenbelters. This represented 59.4% of the 3,194 registered voters. Sixty-six percent of those registered at Center turned out, 71% at North End, 45% at Greenbelt East and 39% at Springhill Lake.

In the 1981 council election 1,801 Greenbelters, representing 51.3% of those registered, voted. Sixty-three percent of the eligible voters in the North End cast ballots, 57.6% in the Center, 43.7% in Greenbelt East and 21.9% in Springhill Lake.

In 1979, 62% of the city's eligible voters trekked to the polls; in 1977, 59% turned out; in 1975, 48%; in 1973, 54%, and in 1971, 54%. However in 1969, a hot election brought out 75% of 2,991 registered voters.

Serving on the Greenbelt Board of Elections are Jule Churchill, chairperson, June Ott, Joseph Comproni, Nathan Shinderman and Robert Spear.

Greenbelt Needs Tom White

We in Greenbelt have been fortunate to have had a productive City Council the past several years, but while we have had many fine council members, they sometimes exhibit very similar views on matters that need examination and discussion. TOM WHITE has often been the only one to insist on a thorough airing of complex issues, and he is not afraid to fight for an opposing point of view if he thinks it is in the best interest of Greenbelt.

This ability to think for himself and to put forward otherwise unvoiced views is an important asset for City Council. We need TOM WHITE to continue to provide his vital input.

On September 30, vote for TOM WHITE to assure an independent voice on City Council.

GREENBELT RD. TRAFFIC DETOURS AS BRIDGE CONSTRUCTION BEGINS

by Norman Scherstrom

Greenbelt Road will be detoured slightly to the north sometime this week to allow for construction of the Kenilworth Ave. bridge, the heart of the Greenbelt Rd.-Kenilworth Ave. interchange.

"We'll be in that detour for the next year," said Mike Snyder, state highway administration District 3 engineer. "It's the longest phase of construction."

The exact time of the shift is dependent upon the completed installation and timing of the traffic lights and upon the weather.

Snyder notes that "there won't be any new losses" of lanes or rights of way in this shift and that a right turn lane for south-bound Kenilworth will be added since drivers have been using the ample shoulder of the road for that purpose anyway.

"We should have done it the first time," Snyder said. "We had the room. We're going to do it this time."

If the ways of the driving public created one lane, it also caused the loss of one. The right hand lane of west-bound Greenbelt Rd. in front of the Golden Triangle is now blocked by several barricades allowing right turns but no through traffic.

When traffic lights blocked the two center lanes, backing up traffic past Walker Dr., the problem lane, which ended in a merge ramp with Kenilworth Ave., continued with fast moving traffic. The speed of the traffic and the reduced visibility for drivers turning onto Walker Dr. to enter the Golden Triangle resulted in accidents.

"From July 18 to September 6, we had 15 accidents at that location," said Greenbelt Police Lt. Jim Craze. "Seven of those involved personal injury; 12 persons were injured. Some were pretty severe; one fellow lost a foot."

Craze expects the new detour to improve traffic. "It's going to make things a whole lot better," he said.

Snyder said the timing of the lights would remain the same; however, "we're about 150 to 200 feet closer to the Beltway off-ramp and we may have to alter the lights if the ramp is getting blocked."

For some the new construction may be a bridge too close.

"We'll have more cranes, more equipment, more crews and more noise because of pile driving," Snyder said. "We'll be driving steel beams into the ground to form supports for the bridge. The pile driving will last only about a month."

For Snyder, the building of the bridge represents a turning point in the construction: "We're getting into the heavy construction now. Just about everything we've done has been temporary, the barricades, the detours, the lights. Now we're building the permanent stuff."

ELECTION RACE

of Greenwood Village and the new sections of Windsor Green/Glen Ora both located in Greenbelt East, will also be casting ballots for the first time.

Top Vote-Getter

Councils have traditionally chosen the top vote-getter as mayor although the city charter is silent on this point. Between 1973 and 1983 — with the exception of 1981 when Richard Castaldi won the top vote — the selection of mayor has seen-sawed between Gil Weidenfeld and Richard Pilski. In 1983 Weidenfeld retained the mayoral seat and Pilski the mayor pro-tem slot.

Potpourri

— Weidenfeld, Pilski and Thomas X. White have served together since 1973. All three are from the center of Greenbelt along with Bram, Curtis, Isaacs and Siegel.

— Putens is from Greenbelt East. His ascent to council in 1981 was the first time since 1971 that a candidate from outside the center of the city was elected. In that year Weidenfeld, then a resident of Springhill Lake, was elected to his first term on council.

— Pilski has served longer than any other councilmember in the city's history — ten consecutive terms starting in 1965.

— Bram is the fifth woman to serve on city council.

— The 1985 election will probably be remembered as the year of proliferating campaign signs. In fact, several generous residents have allowed six and even seven candidates to plant signs, even though there are only five council slots open.

— This was the first election where several candidates' forums were cablecast.

Last Market, Last Chance

One last chance to buy and sell will be provided by the Greenbelt Arts Center on Saturday, October 12, as it hosts the last flea market of the season in Roosevelt Center from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Anyone interested in reserving a table space should call 345-8395. The Arts Center will have its own table and welcomes contributions of new or used items "in good condition." Contributions can be brought to the center at the time of the market.

Residents of Green Ridge House Hear Views of Council Candidates

by Eileen Peterson

The eight candidates for the Greenbelt city council appeared before four dozen Green Ridge House residents and visitors on Thursday evening, Sept. 5.

Jose Morales moderated the hour-and-a-half appearance by the candidates during which it was the style, personality and experience of the candidates that was being weighed rather than any sharp difference in their perceptions of present or future city problems.

In three-minute speeches, each candidate stressed slightly varying views. Ed Putens spoke of the need for a council "with experience" to handle important issues of the future such as the bond issue. Tom White stressed his conservationist experience. Joe Isaacs suggested a survey of the city on use of capital improvements bond money and stressed his health care experience. Dick Pilski stood on his record and the longevity of his terms on the council. Valerie Siegel spoke about the safety factor and crime control.

Antoinette "Toni" Bram mentioned her priorities of new police department space, the bus service and a possible community extended care facility. Steve Curtis stressed his GHI committee experience and the need for the city to be a "good purchaser" with the capital improvements bond money. Gil Weidenfeld reminded his audience of his role in influencing a central location for Green Ridge House.

Seated in the order in which they arrived, the candidates at the long table up front concisely answered questions from the audience. Jim Cassels elicited from each candidate strong endorsements and praise for the work of Greenbelt CARES in helping both youth and families and thereby the community as a whole. There was strong support from the candidates for the services of CARES and concern about overloaded staff. Weidenfeld called CARES "our fixit program."

Really Any Issues?

Visitor Eunice Coxon asked if there were really any issues in the campaign. Here the candidates' approach to generally agreed-upon issues varied slightly. Isaacs said "perhaps (the city) allowed too-rapid growth." Curtis remarked that the "small-town atmosphere is being lost." Bram said the issue is people: safety, cost (alluding to the need for a strong tax base), transportation. White spoke of the deterioration of the lake park and the need for revising city council procedures which he said "have deteriorated in the last two years." Pilski stressed fiscal responsibility and the need to develop North End School as a day care or health care center.

Putens argued that strong police protection — and a new facility for them — was an issue.

Siegel cited drugs and crime that make the city very "different than when it was founded." Weidenfeld said "quality of life" to preserve Greenbelt while meeting the needs for major road modifications in the outer areas of the city was a major issue.

Bill Lightbody asked about the power of the council and the city manager. Here lines seemed to begin to be drawn. Praise for City Manager James Giese came from most candidates. Bram eliciting laughter when she remarked that Giese "squeezes a nickel until the buffalo squeals." Pilski mentioned the surplus in the city treasury and money found for tennis court repair and commented "that's not fiscal responsibility (on the part of the city manager)."

White questioned the procedure for funding the tennis courts at the very end of the yearly budget session. Isaacs spoke of the need for "new blood" on the council, and Curtis again cited his GHI experience in solving technical problems. Siegel mentioned the lake park and the need for a master plan to be decided by council.

The issue of the evening came when Ruth Save brought up the danger of walking the steep path from the Roosevelt Center underpass up the hill between the Crescent Road apartments. Weidenfeld asked for suggestions from the audience, and hands flew up everywhere. The residents of Green Ridge House had finally pinpointed a truly concrete issue.

At Greenbelt Park

The Park Service will sponsor a nature awareness walk on Sept. 28 and 29 in Greenbelt Park. The 2-mile hike, which will last about two hours, will be led by a park ranger. Those interested should meet at the Ranger Station at 10 a.m. In the event of rain, the walk will be cancelled. For further information, call 344-3943.

County Bond Sale Picture Improves

On July 16 Prince Georges County sold $28,480,000 of general obligation bonds at an effective interest rate of 8.189987 percent. The winning bidder, among six bidding syndicates, was Prudential Bache Securities, Inc. This interest rate was well below the 11-bond index of 8.71 percent for the week ended July 11. The 11-bond index is equivalent in rating to high grade double "A" bonds maturing in 20 years.

County Executive Parris Glendening attributed the low rate of interest on the County's obligations to the improved financial operations resulting from the recent amendment of the TRIM tax limitation.

The most recent general obligation bond sale prior to the amendment of TRIM was sold in December 1983 at an effective interest rate of 9.7932 percent.

Recreation Review

Women's Flag Football

Action in the Women's Flag Football can be seen every Sunday, 9 a.m. - 2 p.m. on Braden Field. It is tough and exciting. Spectators are urged to come down and cheer their favorite team on to victory.

Open Volleyball

Co-recreational volleyball is played at the Greenbelt Elementary School Gymnasium on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 8:30 - 10:30 p.m. until school lets out in May. All 16 years of age and over are welcome. A nominal fee will be charged.

Halloween Costume Parade

Prepare costumes now and don't miss out on the fun. The Greenbelt Recreation Department will hold its Annual Halloween Costume Judging and Show on Wednesday, October 30 from 3:30 - 5:30 p.m. Judging of costumes will take place at 11 a.m. All ghosts and goblins, witches and warlocks are invited. Entertainment and treats for all.

Roller Skating Begins

Fall Roller Skating will begin next Wednesday, October 2 at the Center Elementary School. Skating is held from 3:30 - 5:30 p.m. on the following days: Kindergarten - 3rd grade on Wednesdays and 4th-6th grades on Fridays. A nominal fee will be charged at the door. Bring skates or rent.

Festival of Lights - 1985 Craft Show & Sale

This year will mark the 14th Annual Festival of Lights sponsored by the Greenbelt Recreation Department. Highlighting the Festival is the craft show and sale held at the Greenbelt Youth Center on the first weekend in December.

People with a craft who wish to participate in the show, please contact the Youth Center for an informational brochure and application. Days and times for the show are as follows:

Saturday, December 7, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. and Sunday, December 8, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. For additional information, contact the Greenbelt Recreation Department Business Office, weekdays 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., 474-6878.

Adult Co-ed Soccer

This week, games will be played on Saturday at the Greenbelt Middle School Field beginning at 10 a.m. Spectators may call the Recreation Department, 474-6878, for further information on schedules.

Our Neighbors

Martha Kaufman 474-9359

Our heartfelt condolences to Mr. and Mrs. Drummond Orr and family on the recent death of their son, Michael.

Our deepest sympathy to Linda McCaughy and family on the death of her husband, Donald.

Tony and Mary MacQuillan spent six weeks in Britain this summer, three weeks of which were spent touring throughout England, Scotland and Ireland. Then, Mary and Isabel Field, a first-grade teacher at Greenbelt Center School, took a two-week trip to the Phillipines to visit Ann French Duryea, friend and former aide in the hearing program at Center. Ann lives at Olongapo, Luzon Island, where her husband Roy works for Grumman Corp. Mary, Isabel and Ann spent a week in Hong Kong. Mary tells of weathering a typhoon while at Ann's. The Duryea family are planning a three-week trip to Australia in November, says Mary.

Ari Benjamin Kohn, son of Niki and Gary Kohn of Windsor Green, is proud to announce the birth of his sister, Dena Sara, on September 23. Dena, weighing in at 6 lbs., 11 oz., and 19 inches long, is doing just fine, as is her mother.

Greenbelter, Anne Thompson won the Table Topics contest, a competition in extemporaneous speaking, in the Fall Speech Contest of the Crown of Laurel Toastmaster Club held on September 18. She and other contest winners will represent the Crown of Laurel Club in the Toastmasters Division D, Area 42 Contest, to be held October 6 in College Park.

GHI NOTES

GHI will sponsor a free blood pressure testing clinic on Wednesday, October 2 from 2-4 p.m.

Members are reminded that GHI regulations (page 37-85 in the GHI Handbook) require that a trash container cabinet be provided on the serviceside to hold trash cans. The GHI warehouse (474-7476) does sell a cabinet, at cost, to members for this purpose. GHI will also be designing other alternatives for trash cabinets. Members without a cabinet or trash closet will be required to obtain one as soon as possible, rather than waiting until resale of the home. Any members who have designed trash enclosures or have ideas for enclosures which would enhance the appearance of GHI homes are asked to call the Member Relations Department (474-6644).

OF IN-HOME COLOR TV/VCR SERVICE

565-0001

I provide in-home service in this neighborhood 3 days each week as well as some evenings and weekends. I'm bonded, licensed and top rated for over 25 years. You can count on my estimates and prompt fair service. I always call before visiting, carry more than 5 times the normal inventory of parts, and can (almost) always repair your Color TV IN YOUR HOME, ON ONE TRIP. I repair HI FI'S and VCR's also. I buy broken color Zenith portables. Call with model and chassis no's. from back of set.

Thanks for reading my AD. Please save it.

DIRECTIONS FOR VOTING

To Close Curtains

1. Move large red handled lever to right until bell rings and curtains close. Do not touch this handle again until you are ready to leave.
2. For Member of Council: Turn down lever over the name of candidate you wish to vote for. You can vote for only five candidates. Leave the levers down.
3. Write In: You may vote for someone not on the ballot by raising the slide door designated for Write-In Candidates and writing the name or names on the paper tape exposed. Do not write in the name of a candidate on the ballot.
4. Corrections: If you wish to change a vote after you have turned a lever down, simply move the lever back to its original position and turn down the lever over your new selection.
5. Record Vote: Upon making all selections, move the large handled lever to left as far as it will go. Your vote will be registered, all levers will return to their original position, and the curtains will open.
6. Remember: Once the red handled lever is moved to left, your vote is cast and you can no longer make any changes in your vote.
